Building Capacity with First Nations Followers of Jesus

Who's Coming?

Native people in ministry, wanting to serve in a good way

Non-Natives who serve Native people or just want to understand the Native world view better and want to connect in more meaningful ways with their First

Workshop Emphases

How can theology and biblical teaching resonate with Native culture and traditions, while remaining biblically faithful?

How can we better understand traditional struggles of faith and life set within the traditions and learning styles of Aboriginal Peoples?

What can we learn from one another that will better empower us as leaders, deepen relationships and equip us for future ministry together?

What Is The Purpose Of All This?

Our desire through these workshops is to strengthen people of faith in Jesus. But, faith and community for Native people are not isolated. That's why we believe that now is the time to empower our people to fully and authentically walk out their faith in Jesus, sharing their journey with others—regardless of traditions or culture.
